

KARAOKE GIRL - anyone can be a star

Based on the original idea and screenplay
by Lauri Kivi-Koskinen

Contact:
Erkki "Erik" Kanto
Atophill Films
P +1-(805) 584-9639
C +1-(805) 462-7081
E erkki.kanto@atophill.com

SYNOPSIS (please note: some facts and character names are temporary and will change)

Karaoke girl is a story about single people in a big city. Mary, Pam and Tina are best friends. Mary is unemployed. Her dad wants her to study law and come and work in his company. But in her heart she wants to be a singer and an actress. Her best friend, Tina, is a tough lawyer. Tina introduces Mary to Pam. She is a writer. They all end up in this magical karaoke bar. Mary sings, and everyone applauds. She is a good solid performer and singer. Tina thinks Mary should pursue a career in showbusiness. So Mary decides to try the theatre school exams.

They are all single, so they also decide to try something new: on-line dating. They end up dating Peter, Paul and Pierre. Paul is working in a bookshop and writes poems. Peter is a musician who wants to make a record. Pierre is an expert in global conspiracy. Paul and Peter are childhood friends. Pierre is a customer from Paul's bookshop.

Some dates crash totally and some end up in this magical karaoke bar. There we meet a lot of interesting characters. Some of them perform a song, some of them just dance and listen.

Mary ends up having an on-line date with all three of them, Peter, Paul and Pierre, but for some reason falls in love with Paul. They start going steady. While Paul is away on business trip, Peter starts to have feelings for Mary. They end up in bed together.

After Paul comes back, he and Mary decide to get married, with Peter as the best man. The wedding goes all wrong. In the middle of the ceremony, the best man Peter declares his love for Mary, the bride. Paul slaps him in the face. But after Mary declares his love to Peter she also suspects that Paul is actually gay. Paul admits it, and says he is in love with Peter. Mary kisses Peter, and so Paul realizes his situation, and leaves. The priest who has been flirting all along with the bridesmaid, Tina, marries Peter and Mary.

After the wedding, the priest and Tina take off to have a few drinks together. Paul meets the gardener, Jake, outside, who also happens to be the tough bouncer in the karaoke bar. They fall in love and Peter and Mary meet a customer from the karaoke bar, who's heard Mary and Peter sing many times in the bar. He is actually a director in a record company. He wants to make a record with Mary and Peter.

In the end there is a big party in the karaoke bar, and Peter and Mary perform their new song: The Karaoke Girl.